STREET CARS TO SUSPEND OPERATIONS

RUSSIA WOULD FAVOR TOTAL DISARMAMENT

LITVINOFF ASSERTS PEACE ESSENTIAL TO SOCIALISM

BY P. I. LIPSEY, JR.
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1932, By The Associated Press)

Geneva, Feb. 11—Maxim Litvinoff, Russia's commissar for foreign affairs, submitted his government's traditional radical proposals for totaldisarmamenttothe arms conference today, but accompanied them with enough conciliatory promises of cooperation to win a measure of approval from the delegations of capitalistic states.

Recognizing that his proposals, which were rejected by the conference's preparatory commission, had slight chance of acceptance now, Moscow's aggressive spokesman recommended to the conference a plan for progressive proportional reduction of armaments as an alternative.

Non-Interference

Then, remembering that this project had been turned down by the body which drafted the proposed arms treaty, he declared he was ready to support any scheme for reduction which approached or went beyond his own.

More welcome to the delegates than these offers of collaboration was the Russian's insistence that the Soviet union does not wish to interfere in the affairs of other nations and desires to enjoy the same non-interference from its neighbors.

"The sole aim of the soviet government is the building up of socialism in the territory of the soviet union," Litvinoff said.

Marked by certain evidences of a conciliatory spirit, M. Litvinoff's address still was dynamic with sharp criticism of the existing world peace organization, and was severe with the proposals of some of the other great powers.

He denounced pacts and agreements under the League of Nations covenant as virtually impotent to guarantee tranquillity, and pointed to the Sino-Japanese hostilities as proof of his charge.

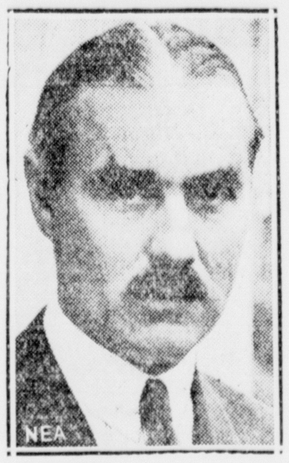
Public opinion—the force on which certain groups pin their hopes—was characterized by the Russian as a vague thing equally impotent to curb warlike tendencies and selfish ambitions.

He paid the French plan for arming the League of Nations the compliment of close attention, and rejected it only after a long analysis which, he argued, proved it unworkable.

Nothwithstanding these attacks, the foreign commissar made it clear the soviets do not deny "the importance and efficacy of all other ways of consolidating peace, short of total disarmament."

The soviet union, he said, recognizes the importance of international pledges such as the Kellogg pact, and is an eager advocate of pacts of non-aggression.

NEW U. S. ENVOY TO JAPAN



The critical post of United State ambassador to Japan has been awarded to Joseph C. Grew (above) of New Hampshire. Now ambassador to Turkey, he has been appointed by President Hoover to succeed W. Cameron Forbes of Massachusetts at Tokio.

HURLEY ARGUES WITH SENATORS

Secretary of War Calls Bill to Free Filipinos "Cowardly"

BY FREDERICK G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—An acrid dispute between President Hoover's secretary of war and two Democratic senators advocating Philippine independence today interrupted a senate committee hearing on freeing the islands.

The word "cowardly" was applied by Secretary Patrick Hurley to independence measures sponsored jointly by Senators Hawes (D., Mo.), and Cutting (R., N. M.) and by Rep. Hare (D., S. C.), and a heated interchange with Hawes and Senator King (D., Utah), followed.

Voices were raised and emphatic language used as Hawes objected to the adjective and the big broad shouldered head of the war department refused to withdraw it.

Argument Ensues

"The purpose of the Hawes-Cutting-Hare bill is cowardly," said Hurley. "It attempts to tear down—"

"Just a minute, just a minute," broke in Hawes.

"I'm making this speech," shot back the secretary. "You wait until I finish."

"Do you mean to say that Senator Cutting and I are cowardly?" asked Hawes, leaning toward the secretary who sat only a few feet away on the same side of the committee table.

"The bill has not in it one of the lements of courage," Hurley returned. "It is an attempt to tear down all that has been built up over a period of years."

"Then you don't withdraw the word 'cowardly'?"

"No, I don't." Hurley responded. "I know that Senator Cutting will understand I mean no personal offense and I hope you will understand it also."

"The purpose of the bill is for destroying. It is based absolutely on fear."

"There is not a line in the bill that justifies that opinion," said Hawes.

Seabury To Explain Farley Impeachment

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—Samuel Seabury, Tammany foe, was called upon today to explain before Governor Roosevelt his reasons for demanding that the chief executive remove Sheriff Thomas M. Farley of New York City, a high chief of the Tammany wigwam.

Mr. Roosevelt called the hearing for February 16 in the executive chamber of the capitol.

The Farley charges, chiefly "unfitness," have been a focal point of political speculation because of the considered importance of the Tammany influence in Democratic politics. Mr. Roosevelt is a candidate for the presidential nomination. He is not a Tammany member and in the days of Charles F. Murphy, a decade and a half ago, vigorously opposed Tammany.

Four-Hour Truce Called at Chapei to Permit Rescue of Wounded Soldiers, Civilians

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1932, By The Associated Press)

Shanghai, Feb. 12, (Friday)—While a truce for an errand of mercy halted hostilities in the battle-torn Chapei area today, fighting between Japanese and Chinese forces broke out sharply at Woosung.

Machine gunners and riflemen engaged in the battle across Woosung creek, and Japanese warships and artillery took up the action. There was no evidence, however, that the Japanese were ready to begin immediately their promised attack with 500-pound aerial bombs on the stubborn Chinese forts at Woosung.

Each side blamed the other for starting today's fighting across the creek.

A four-hour truce allowed foreign relief workers to enter the Chapei battle zone to rescue wounded soldiers and any civilians trapped there, afraid to break through the firing lines of the rival forces. In the far-off corners of the section, intermittent rifle fire continued.

Errand Completed

The relief party consisted of Father Jacquinot, a French priest who was instrumental in arranging the truce; Colonel Hayley Bell, British army officer, who helped him arrange it, and fifteen French nursing sisters. Japanese troops and guns were silent as the party entered shortly after 8 a. m.

They emerged at 11:30 a. m. and said their merciful errand had been completed as far as possible.

Father Jacquinot estimated that at least 3,000 persons were evacuated from the area. Most of them, he said, had been taken out through Chinese lines opposite the points from which the party entered.

The first group rescued comprised 12 Chinese women and children. Father Jacquinot said his party covered the area "fairly thoroughly" from Shanghai's north station northward and eastward to the tracks of the Shanghai-Woosung railway.

Conditions in Chapei "were ghastly," Father Jacquinot said. His observations, he added, bore out previous statements that the area had been reduced to a shambles.

Many bodies, bullet-riddled and burned, were scattered about, he said. All the buildings were either burned to the ground or lying in shattered fragments.

In this no man's land, nevertheless, a number of dazed persons continued to live. The priests said they refused all efforts to drag them to safety. They seemed, he said, to have fragments of food here and there, although the source was a mystery.

The truce under which the refugees have been evacuated expired at noon, with intermittent rifle fire continuing throughout the morning into the afternoon. The Japanese said Chinese snipers had again entered Chapei, taking advantage of the suspension of hostilities.

Conditions Tense

As the morning wore on, conditions near Chapei and along Szechuen road southward became tense. The area thereabout had been barred to all civilians, but Japanese soldiers opened it to traffic during the truce and it was jammed by crowds.

SEVEN DEMOS IN SPOTLIGHT

Pre-Convention Picture More Complicated Than Ever

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Seven Democrats who are being boomed for the presidential nomination figured today in political developments which left the pre-convention picture more complicated than ever.

Former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia spent nearly an hour with former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York in Smith's skyscraper office, and then called on John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee.

Byrd has been endorsed as a presidential candidate by the general assembly and congressional delegation of his state. Smith announced this week his willingness to accept the nomination.

The Virginian said his visits had been "just courtesy calls."

He refused to discuss hints broadcast by supporters of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt that if Roosevelt gets the presidential nomination, he (Byrd) would head the list for the vice-presidential place.

Another aspirant for the nomination became definitely a candidate when a primary petition was filed at Springfield, Ill., which put James Hamilton Lewis, Illinois senator, into the running. At the same time former U. S. Senator Joseph Irwin France of Maryland was placed in nomination in Illinois as a Republican candidate.

Garner Mentioned

A fight within the Democratic state committee of Pennsylvania over Roosevelt brought an open split. John R. Collins, committee chairman, announced he had accepted the resignations of Edward B. Zimmerman, state secretary, and Warren Van Dyke, publicity director for the committee, as committee members.

Zimmerman and Van Dyke, after charging Collins and Sedgwick Kistler, national committeeman, with being back of a "stop Roosevelt" campaign, early this week called a meeting for tomorrow to form a committee to work for Roosevelt's nomination.

A movement to win the presidential nomination for John N. Garner, speaker of the house, began to take concrete shape with a call for a rally at San Antonio on February 22 and a later one in Dallas. The Texan has remained silent, except to indicate to friends he will not become a party to a "stop-Roosevelt" campaign.

Construction Will Batter Depression

Chicago, Feb. 11. (AP)—The construction industry has "brought us out of every depression heretofore and will bring us out of the present one," said Alton J. Hager of Lansing, Mich., today. He is president of the National Retail Lumber Dealers association, and spoke before the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers.

He urged dealers to take advantage of the credit extended by the newly created national home finance corporation, of which he is also president.

Barrymores Expect Addition to Family

Hollywood, Feb. 11 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Barrymore are expecting the arrival of a new Barrymore in May.

"It's true," the actor said today, "and Mrs. Barrymore and I are very happy about it."

Mrs. Barrymore is the former Dolores Costello, screen actress. They have a daughter, Dolores, now three years old.

58 Breadlines In Detroit Abandoned

Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—City firemen are abandoning the 58 breadlines they have been operating for months, feeding more than 16,000 indigent men, women and children daily.

Salary cuts for the firemen and a steady increase in size of the breadlines until the demands no onger can be met were given as reasons for abandonment of the charitable enterprises.

JUDGE QUIZZES SOO RESIDENTS

Indictments Expected to Be Issued Today in Smuggling Case

Saulte Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—Indictment against one or more Sault residents are tentatively promised for tomorrow by Assistant Attorney General Edward A. Bilitzke who has been directing presentation of evidence in a one-man grand jury investigation of a reported million dollar fur smuggling conspiracy.

Should the indictments be returned tomorrow, Bilitzke said, Circuit Judge Lester S. Moll, the Wayne county jurist who is sitting as the grand jury, probably will return at once to Newberry for issuance of indictments against Luce county fur dealers.

It is likely, he said, the investigation will clase at Manistique where it is tentatively planned to question some witnesses.

Bilitzke said Judge Moll would recommend revision of the state conservation laws to make them more stringent.

Phil Jacobs, former Sault city commissioner, testified for four hours today in the court which Judge Moll has set up in a hotel room here. Other witnesses today were Abe Lyons, employe of Jacobs, and Sam Braude, who was released from the Luce county jail yesterday upon his promise to produce records of his fur transactions.

Jacobs and Cornelius Harris, Sault business man, who testified at Newberry, are to be recalled tomorrow.

Jobless Assault Government Chief

St. John's, N. F., Feb. 11 (AP)—A delegation of unemployed today assaulted Prime Minister Squires and other officials after battling police and partly wrecking the government council chambers.

The melee followed upon several meetings in the city and came after two attempts had been made to interview the premier.

Earlier in the day 500 men and women assembled in front of the prime minister's office and demanded a hearing on the dole, which now is $1.60 a month per person.

They were met by the secretary of state who told them there was no hope for an increase. A parade of about 1500 then marched through the city, with the march halting at the council chambers.

Locate Hideout Of Notorious Robber

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 11 (AP)—A quiet Tulsa residence was discovered today as the recent hiding place of Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, notorious bank robber and killer. Police failed to capture the outlaw in a raid although they arrested his wife and 7-year-old son, Jackie.

The Oklahoma desperado, who had fought two gun battles with officers here this week, escaped from the house with his lieutenant, George Birdwell, just ahead of a heavily armed squad of officers.

Mrs. Floyd, 26, said her husband and Birdwell had been at the Tulsa address since early in January.

Nation Not Free Today As Lincoln Understood Liberty, Says Pinchot

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11 (AP)—If Abraham Lincoln were a candidate for president this year on his platform of human rights, said Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania tonight, he wouldn't "get to first base with the controlling powers of the Republican convention in Chicago."

Addressing the Mid-Day club's observance of the 123rd anniversary of the Civil war president's birth, the Pennsylvania governor frequently mentioned in the news as a presidential aspirant, asked:

"How many of our national leaders can declare with Lincoln: 'I have never had a feeling, political or otherwise, that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the declaration of independence.' Can Mellon? Can Hoover?"

Man of the People

Tomorrow's celebration of Lincoln's birth was characterized by Governor Pinchot as an "empty tribute, a useless gesture, if we lose sight of all he worked for and fought for and gave his life to."

Tonight's observance in the mammoth state arsenal touched off the annual memorial in this city that knew Lincoln best. Two miles across the city from the arsenal, and nearby state capitol, lay the rail-splitter's remodeled tomb, re-dedicated last summer by President Hoover.

Governor Pinchot described Lincoln as "essentially a man of the people, not because he was born in a log cabin or split rails in his youth, but rather because his thoughts were the thoughts of the people, his desires their desires, and his whole purpose and action were aimed to protect and further the people's welfare. In that spirit he held that the first duty of our

VOTE ON DOLE POSTPONED AS SOLONS ARGUE

REED ASSERTS BILL IS "CRIMINALLY UNWISE"

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Federal appropriations to aid the unemployed were contrastingly described in the setane debate today as "criminally unwise" and as necessary to prevent "thousands upon thousands of human tragedies."

A vote on the issue was again postponed as senators locked horns before crowded galleries over the extent of suffering among the jobless.

The issue was more clearly drawn, however, as the senate added $375,000,000 for road construction to the LaFollette-Costigan bill which already carried the same amount for direct relief.

This brought the total of the direct relief bill to $750,000,000, the same as proposed in a Democratic substitute. The LaFollette-Costigan bill would give the relief funds to the state, however, while the substitute measure would lend them.

"Government's Duty"

The phrase "criminaliy unwise" came from Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who rushed to the defense of the administration's viewpoint in the face of sharp attacks from Democratic and independent Republican ranks.

Taking the view that the need for federal aid had been "fully established," Senator Fagner, (D., N. Y.), said it was an obligation on the government to prevent suffering. It was he who referred to "human tragedies."

Senator Pittman (D., Nev.) said there was conclusive evidence that "there is distress and suffering in this country that is not today being relieved." The situation was described by Senator Frazier (R., N. D.) as "so desperate that something must be done by the government."

Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, announced he would not vote for federal aid until he knew where the money was coming from. He called attention to the growing treasury deficit and said the appropriations proposed would buy the entire wheat and cotton crops.

Reed said experience had shown that relief in the form of money was "wasteful and inefficient."

He said if there was no other way to prevent Americans from starving there would be no objection to waiving principle in the face of necesstiy, but he denied that condition existed.

"I do not believe that necessity has arisen," he said. "Certainly we haven't reached that state of abysmal collapse where the states have become impotent in relieving distress."

Wagner contended that "the plight of hundreds of thousands of families is desperate."

"I do not have to seek in the constitution for power to relieve suffering," he said. "Can there be any function of government that takes precedence over the obligation to prevent suffering?

"I don't propose to be intimidated by the word dole."

He urged adoption of his substitute amendment to advance the states funds out of future road appropriations to be used now for relief.

Hearings Ordered On Doctors' Code

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—In an effort to codify and improve the laws relating to the practice of medicine, chiropractic and other healing arts a series of hearings was ordered today by a special legislative commission.

Representatives of all schools of healing will be invited to attend. The first hearing was set for the second Thursday in March and others will follow on the same day each month. Dr. C. C. Slemons, state health commissioner, will be asked to submit his recommendations at the March meeting.

Britain's Tariff Measure Published

London, Feb. 11 (AP)—The measure by which Great Britain will throw over her century-old tradition of free trade and become a protectionist country was published today.

It provides for a general ten per cent tariff on all imports with certain important exceptions and sets up the machinery under which duties above ten per cent may be imposed on the recommendations of a special committee.

Imperial preference was assured by the exemption of goods from the dominions from all tariffs until November 15, 1932, by which time the question will have been threshed out at the Ottawa conference, and by complete exemption of goods from colonies and mandated territories

M'Adoo Urges Tax of 100% On 'Leggers

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Taxing the bootlegger and drug peddlers to the full extent of their incomes was proposed today by William G. McAdoo, former Democratic secretary of the treasury, as one way of ending the government's fiscal troubles.

The suggestion was made in a letter to Senator Walsh (D., Mont.), who had sought his views on new methods of taxation. Without discussing prohibition, McAdoo wrote if reports were true that bootleggers were making a billion and a half dollars annually it was the government's duty to "take the entire amount of such profits through taxation."

"It may not be possible," he added, "to collect 100 per cent of the illegal income, but certainly the wholesalers—the crux of the problem—can be reached, and if they should be driven out of business the small operator or retailer will find it difficult to ply his nefarious trade.

Must Balance Budget

"Those who argue the government should not tax unlawful business, fail to realize that if incomes from illicit operations are exempted from or permitted to escape taxation, while incomes from lawful operations are not, the criminal is rewarded and the honest man is punished."

In the house, meanwhile, Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee appealed to the country to supply more taxes and urged congress to approve a revenue bill to balance the federal budget.

He told the house that a balanced budget was essential to economic recovery and that a $1,241,000,000 in additional revenue was necessary to eliminate the treasury deficit in 1933.

The Georgia Democrat had just come from the committee room where he appointed a sub-group to consider a one or two per cent general manufacturers sales tax. Two other sub-committees were designated to recommend increases in income taxes, both individual and corporate, and to draft gift tax legislation.

The manufacturers sales tax has strong support, and it appears as if it will be the big item on the bill.

FORD TELLS OF HIS 1932 PLANS

Manufacturer Hopes to Start Wheels of Industry Spinning

BY DAVID J. WILKIE

Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—Declaring that "someone has to risk something to get things started," Henry Ford today disclosed his latest plan for breaking loose the jam that for nearly two years has retarded the automobile industry.

He announced that within the next few weeks the Ford company will bring out an improved four and a new "V" eight cylinder model, coupled with it the statement that he had determined "to get the price of an automobile down to the mark where the public can buy it."

At the same time Mr. Ford expressed the hope that the "raw material supply men" would not begin to raise prices coincident with the effort of manufacturers to "start the wheels of industry." Such action, he said, might "throttle the whole effort."

"In times like these," he said, "everyone has to take some risk, make some sacrifice and even be willing, for a time, to do business without profit in order to start the normal processes of industry and business again."

"We're not certain of the market for the new cars," Ford said, "but we're going to risk it. Someone has to risk something to get things started, and, you know, faith is catching; if we have confidence others will, too. The chief thing to do is to meet the public's demand for something new and better at a price the average man can pay."

In automotive circles, Ford's remark that he was determined to bring prices down to the point where the public can buy was interpreted as indicating his intention to initiate a period of the keenest competition in the low priced field.

Disclosure of the Ford plans served to dispel much of the uncertainty that has surrounded the industry for many months. Their real effect, however, will not be fully felt until the trade knows the price of the new cars and exactly what mechanical advances are incorporated in them.

The Ford statement gave no intimation of what plans had been made for recalling workmen, but if deliveries of the new four are to be made early in March, many thousands of men are expected to be brought back to work within the next few days. Coincidentally the release of large orders for parts and raw materials is expected.

TRACTION CO. TO PETITION UTILITY BODY

SERVICE HAS BEEN MAINTAINED AT LOSS

Official announcement was made yesterday by the Escanaba Power and Traction company that application has been made to the Michigan Public Utilities commission for permission to suspend the operation of its street car lines in Escanaba and Gladstone, together with the connecting line between the two cities.

Escanaba and Gladstone for the past several years have been among the few remaining cities in the upper peninsula of Michigan enjoying a street car service and that the action announced yesterday would finally be necessary has been generally recognized.

Operated at Loss

It is known that the company has operated its street car lines at a loss in these cities for the past several years and when permission is finally given the local company to discontinue service by the Michigan utilities commission, one of the last street car lines in the peninsula will have passed out of existence.

In connection with the announcement of the filing of an application for permission to discontinue street car service, officials of the company also announced yesterday that it was not the present intention of the company to establish a bus service, to take the place of the street cars, preferring to leave that function to private enterprise, which undoubtedly will be developed by individuals who are already considering the matter.

Established in 1892

Under the proceedings that have been inaugurated and made public yesterday, the utilities commission, upon receipt of the notice, will set a date for a hearing, when the showing of the company as to the losses sustained over a long period of years, will be presented. The commission, if impressed with the necessity of discontinuing the service, will establish a date upon which the company will be permitted to cease the operation of its cars.

Street car service was established in Escanaba in 1892 and continuously, for 40 years, the company has provided Escanaba and Gladstone with an unsurpassed service. The company's equipment and tracks have been constantly maintained in the finest possible condition. During each winter for many years it has been the boast of the local street railway officials that no winter storm could be too severe to prevent the company's cars in making close to regular trips over the various lines.

The coming of automobiles, in rapidly multiplying numbers, cut deeper and deeper into the revenues of the company and have finally brought about a condition that has made necessary the suspension of service.

Meeting Held

Officials of the company notified the Gladstone and Escanaba city commissions of their intentions at a meeting held at the Delta hotel yesterday noon.

Those present at the meeting included M. N. Smith, president of the traction company, C. J. Driscoll, secretary-treasurer, Attorney H. J. Rushton, representing the company; Mayor J. P. Bushong and Commissioners Hawkins, Peterson and Bredahl, of Gladstone; Mayor W. H. Needham and Commissioners St. Martin, Anderson and Hoyler, of Escanaba; City Manager F. R. Buechner, of Gladstone and City Manager T. F. Kessler, of Escanaba.

Rep. Schafer (R. Wis.), an anti-prohibitionist, called Garner "a man so wet he voted against even submitting the 18th amendment to the states."

Rep. Blanton (D. Tex.), a prohibitionist, who last Monday suggested Garner be given the presidential nomination, answered that "the people of the United States know our distinguished speaker so well they are for him wet or dry."

A fifth presidential aspirant, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, who already has declared himself a candidate, delivered an address at Baltimore, which was broadcast throughout the country, in which he called on the United States to maintain adequate armed forces to protect the nation. He made no mention of national politics.

In Oklahoma, Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray said he would "stand behind" an announcement made by his brother that he would campaign in North Dakota March 2 to 5 for the Democratic presidential nomination, making six speeches.

A seventh figure in the pre-convention spotlight, Newton D. Baker, is on his way to this country and is due here Sunday. Before he sailed on a vacation trip to Mexico, Baker was projected into the forefront of the muddled political picture after he had announced he did not consider the League of Nations as issue in this year's campaign.

Recommend Further Credit Be Extended

Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—Another financial impasse appeared to have been surmounted today when the civilian committee on city finances announced it had recommended to New York bankers that further credit be granted the city.

That recommendation was expected to dissipate fears taht paychecks to employes due Monday would have to be withheld.

All employes still face the prospect of a number of payless days during the next six months, ranging from eight to 25 according to the success of city officials in thawing out millions of dollars worth of "frozen" or delinquent taxes.

Payless days for employes, and practical dissolution of the parks and boulevards and recreation departments and the city planning commission were salient points in the campaign to balance the budget announced today by City Controller G. Hall Roosevelt.

Doctor's Wife Is Sought On Charge Of Poisoning Maid

Chicago, Feb. 11. (AP)—The estranged wife of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, recently a Chicago health commissioner, was sought today on charges of poisoning a former maid to prevent her testifying in Dr. Kegel's divorce suit.

Dr. Kegel in his suit charged that his wife fed him ground glass. He depended upon Mrs. Mary Ryan, their former domestic, to substantiate his charge.

Mrs. Ryan lay dangerously ill today while physicians strove to check the course of a poison she alleged was given her Jan. 25.

A true bill naming Mrs. Kegel as the principal in the attempted murder of Mrs. Ryan was reported voted by the grand jury today. Gerald Lee, a grocer's clerk, reported named as her confederate, was in custody, but Mrs. Kegel could not be found.

Lee was taken before the grand jury and was understood to have waived immunity and testified he saw Mrs. Kegel drop powder in a soda Mrs. Ryan was drinking and that he made no effort to warn the woman or prvent the alleged poisoning.

Convicted Robber Will Get Release

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11. (AP)—William Willard, one of the participants in the Hadley bank robbery in 1926, will be paroled at the expiration his minimum term February 13, Ray Brundage, parole commissioner, announced today.

Willard was sentenced in the Lapeer circuit court to 7 1-2 to 15 years, with 7 1-2 recommended. He will be paroled to Toledo where he is to go to work.

Six others were implicated with Willard in the robbery, all but two of them have served their terms and been released.

Canada, Germany, Italy, Irish Free State, Scotland and England, in the order named, send the largest number of immigrants to the United States.

What Civil War Did To Lincoln.....

BEFORE AFTER

Winter Winds Take Toll Of Life And Property Damages

Chicago, Feb. 11. (AP)—Winter winds, whipping about the central states at gale velocity, today caused at least five deaths, destroyed scores of small structures and severely damaged wire facilities.

The disturbance, centering over the Great Lakes region, had dissipated itself tonight but had left in its wake impaired communication systems, and a toll of property damage estimated at several million dollars.

Three of the victims, John Kivimake, 43, his son, Elmer, 21, and Enoch Arklander, 55, drowned off Astabula Harbor, Ohio, when their fishing smack capsized in the face of a driving gale.

The other two casualties were reported at Indianapolis, where George Carpenter, 42, was crushed to death beneath a crane blown over in the storm, and William Clark, 50, was killed by lightning.

Trend Of Business Rising Gradually

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—While forecasts of trade revival have not materialized to any appreciable extent, the trend of business in some directions is rising gradually but irregularly, says Dun's in its weekly review of business.

"Trade movements in general are proceeding cautiously with no outstanding or unusual developments during the week," the review stated, adding that "the advent of colder weather has exerted a favorable influence of trades which are subject to seasonable changes.

"Retail stores for the most part have experienced a good steady volume of replacement and necessity purchases, and while some gains have been recorded, the low prices in their lines have cut the total value of all sales of general merchandise below that of last year.

"Activity at most industrial centers averages about the same as last week, although steel production is at a slightly lower rate."

College Faculty, Students Censored By President Shaw

East Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—The Michigan State College faculty and student body today were censured by President Robert S. Shaw for its lack of interest in general convocation programs.

The president, speaking at a convocation of tribute to campus scholarship, said "it is regrettable that only 20 per cent of our staff and students find it possible to attend these convocations. Possibly the trouble is with the administration as much as the students themselves."

Thirty-nine per cent of all shipping companies operating under the stars and stripes are one-ship enterprises.

measures, Hurley said the tariff provisions which it contains would wreck the Filipino National Bank, destroy the islands' sugar business which in turn would "drag down" their other industries and lead to "chaos and anarchy" in the period preliminary to complete independence.

"If you must grant independence," he said, "grant it at once and let the revolution that will follow be under their flag, not ours."

He said Senator King's bill, providing for immediate independence, was "courageous."

At one point King turned to Hurley and said:

"I should be very sorry if you remained as secretary of war for an indefinite period and the Philippines should be under you."

"I believe I'm the best friend the Philippines ahve got," Hurley replied, flushing. "I am attempting to prevent organized propaganda from keeping the Philippines from becoming a member of the family of nations. I am fighting for the existence of the Philippine Islands. Every sentiment of my soul supports the freedom of man and opposes domination."

Admits She Sold Booze for Father

Detroit, Feb. 11 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Anna Tite admitted today, police said, that she had sold whisky at her home with her father's consent, and a warrant was recommended charging George Tite, 55, with violating the state prohibition law.

The Tite home was raided after two patrolmen reported purchasing a pint of whisky from Anna. The raid revealed two stills and 65 gallons of whisky. Assistant Prosecutor Miles N. Culehan said he may charge Tite with contributing to the delinquency of a minor child in addition to the prohibition violation.

The child's mother died when she was three years old. She was taken today from her school.

Famed Australian Pilot May Head China's Air Force

(By The Associated Press)

The Sydney, Australia, correspondent of the London Daily Mail said he learned that wing-commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted Australian flier, had been offered the post of commander-in-chief of the Chinese air force.

The aviator declined to comment, except to say he had quoted figures for a prospective purchase of his Australian fleet of planes, that he was jobless and would consider any offer.

Censorship on press dispatches was imposed by the commander of the military garrison at Nanking, which was under martial law.

Sir John Hope-Johnson said the relief of flood sufferers in the central Yangtze basin had been seriously disrupted by the outbreak of hostilities. American wheat shipments were held up in Shanghai, he said, and there was not enough money in sight to pay for them.

TRUCE CALLED AT CHAPEI TO RESCUE INJURED

maintaining order among thousands of persons, seeking to rescue belongings from the neighborhood or merely curious. There was a danger that untoward events might occur. Japanese bluejacket reinforcements, therefore, swarmed into the area, along with a motorcycle corps armed with machine guns.

Father Jacquinot said that while the relief party reconnoitered Chapei they frequently were halted by Chinese soldiers, who apparently were unaware of the truce of mercy, although they made no effort to fire on the rescuers.

The rescuers passed into and out of both Chinese and Japanese lines, as well as over the no man's land between. Within the Japanese area, Father Jacquinot said, the Japanese soldiers maintained the truce to the letter, so far as he knew, not a one Japanese shot was fired after 8 a. m., when the search began.

To Use Big Shells

While the rescuers were inside Chapei, however, sniping continued, he said, apparently from Chinese.

The priest praised the nuns' work.

"They achieved marvels," he said. "Although their lives were constantly in danger."

In the meantime, the Japanese high command was preparing to reduce the Woosung forts with 500-pound aerial bombs.

The dogged resistance of the Chinese defenders has convinced the Japanese staff that the only way to reach a decision is by a large scale military operation, and these bombs, capable of causing terrific destruction, will prepare the way for assault lines of infantrymen with bayonets.

When the zero hour will come remained a secret, but it will be soon. The expected arrival of more reinforcements from Japan to swell the already strong attacking force was one of the factors that held up the action.

The 500-pound bonds will be dropped only at Woosung. Their terrific power would make it impossible for them to be used at Chapei because of the nearness of the international settlement. Experts said such explosives would break windows for miles around and cause untold property damage.

SUCH NERVE!

Fort Worth, Tex.—Jerrald Sizemore, 17, sat in peaceful thought in his automobile. With a start he stopped his dozing. Looking out of the windshield, he saw two youths working to unbolt one of the headlights. Sizemore jumped out of the car and and the two youths ran. He managed to catch one of them, who was held on charges of tampering with an auto.

Taxation Will Be Discussed At Big Meeting On Feb. 15

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11 (AP)—All persons interested in taxation and governmental finances are invited to attend a state wide conference to be held here Monday, Feb. 15, Gov. Brucker announced today. It is expected more than 100 persons will attend.

The meeting was for further consideration of the covert road tax problem, with which a special committee has been struggling for some time. The governor's road invitation, however, is expected to attract those concerned with other taxation matters.

The special committee will submit four recommendations to the conference, including loans to overburdened counties, an increase in the gasoline tax and return of additional funds from present highway revenues. Legislation probably would be required to put any of the suggested relief plans into effect, and the governor is expected to decide following the conference whether a special session of the legislature is needed or whether the legislation can wait until next year.

Local Dealer Tells Of Studebaker Growth

BY A. J. DEGRAND

February 16. Four-score years ago today, Henry and Clem Studebaker opened a small blacksmith shop in South Bend, Indiana. Their entire assets consisted of $68.00 and two sets of blacksmith tools. Today, The Studebaker Corporation, with total net assets of $100,000,000, celebrates its eightieth anniversary—oldest and one of the big four of automobile transportation.

America was young when the Studebaker brothers turned their craft to the building of vehicles. Gold had just been discovered in California and the rush of the 50's was on. Adventurers, following the rainbow trail, sought wagons for the long overland journey, which could stand up under the abuse of the trip in which breakdown meant disaster.

These early pioneers gave the Studebaker brothers their start—and their reputation—and the wagons they turned out spread their name and fame as vehicle builders.

That a concern should remain in business for four-score years is in itself quite unusual. A survey of American business today reveals few of the enterprises which flourished eighty years ago—less than one hundred. According to an accepted authority, of that number only a very small per cent still are engaged in the same field of endeavor in which they started.

Changing times and changing modes have brought oblivion to most of the pioneers of American business. To Studebaker, however, changing customs and conditions have meant increased opportunity—and growth. When the railroads doomed the prairie schooner, Studebaker changed with the times and entered the field of fine carriages and farm wagons, becoming the world's largest producer. With the advent of the automobile, Studebaker, instead of expiring with the carriage era, forged ahead to become even more distinguished in this new form of transportation.

The spirit of leadership which has stimulated Studebaker's growth is perhaps most conspicuous in the developments of recent years. In 1926, when "any good car" was practically assured of popular reception by the public, Studebaker instituted facilities for research and experiment far ahead of its time. More than a million dollars was invested in a proving ground and another million in a research laboratory where new developments and improvements in motor cars could be evolved and preproved before being released to the public.

This pioneering soon bore fruit. Within a short time, Studebaker cars won and still hold all the highest stock car speed and endurance records; more than all other manufacturers combined.

Again in 1930, was manifested this creed of progress. Free Wheeling developed and perfected by Studebaker's engineering corps was introduced to American motordom. Perhaps the greatest tribute to the success and popularity of this principle was the fact that within less than eighteen months practically all the rest of the industry had followed Studebaker's lead.

The most recent and perhaps the most important of Studebaker's innovations is their new standard of safety introduced in the triumphant new Studebakers of 1932. This new standard is a total of numerous features which many authorities believe will become the future yardstick for Automotive Safety.

Studebaker has earned and paid its common stock dividend for the last seventeen years—a tribute to the sales volume made possible by an acceptance of the product by the American buying public and also the capable management of the Corporation under the leadership of its President, A. R. Erskine.

An unusual record climaxed by the present expansion program started after its 75th birthday whereby The Studebaker Corporation has become a holding company for its various subsidiaries, Pierce-Arrow, Studebaker, Rockne and S. P. A. Trucks. This complete coverage of the market being obtained without the capital stock having been increased, which eliminates heavy dividend requirements and permits Studebaker to successfully compete in the value market of 1932.

Thus, throughout its eighty years of history, Studebaker has maintained faith with its traditions of progressive and honest building. Thus, although oldest of the world's builders of transportation, Studebaker has kept ever young by keeping ahead of the times.

ACID STOMACH

Acidity Was the Vampire of Her Energy

She was still a young woman. In college, she swam, played tennis, golf and hockey, went on long hikes. Her household duties were not heavy. Yet after the slightest exertion, she found it necessary to rest. Hyperacidity (excess acid) or an acid condition of the stomach and intestines was responsible for her continual fatigue.

She was just one of the many thousands of women and men too—who are daily harassed by forms of acidity such as heartburn, gas on the stomach, indigestion, biliousness, loss of vitality, fitful, restless sleep, sour stomach, pains after eating. These are due to the excess secretions of various acids in the digestive tract.

Yet no one need to suffer from any of these. Markay's Tablets give instant relief by neutralizing the hyperacidic condition and re-establishing the normal alkalinity of the system. This freedom from pain is close at hand—at your druggist's.

MAKE THIS SIMPLE 7-DAY TEST

Go to any good drug store for a package of Markay's Tablets. Take one after each meal as directed for 7 days.

If you find Markay's Tablets do not give you better digestion, more refreshing sleep, heartier appetite, more genuine pep—then return what remains of your package, and the druggist will gladly refund your money at once.

Former Instructor At Escanaba High Dies at the Sault

Miss Gertrude Hills, 38, Sault high school dean of girls and teacher of community civics and history, died at the War Memorial hospital Tuesday afternoon, following several months illness with cancer.

Miss Hills became ill after returning from a tour of Europe last summer, and was unable to attend her classes. School officials at the Soo thought her illness was the result of exhaustion after her European tour. She was absent a week beginning October 16. She returned to school for a few days and then became ill again, being away from her classes from that time until her death.

Considered one of the most valuable teachers of the public school system, she had a long experience in her profesison. She had been a teacher in three public school systems during 16 years, being employed by the school board at the Soo for 10 years, since 1922.

Receiving her early education in the public schools of Jackson, where she was born, December 6, 1893, she took two years of training at Olivet College in 1912. She then attended the University of Michigan, graduating from that institution with a bachelor of arts degree in 1916.

For two years, from 1916 to 1918 she taught English and history at the Baraga, Mich., high school. In 1918 she went to Escanaba where she taught in the high school until 1922. That year she was engaged as a teacher in the Sault high school.

She is survived by her mother in Sault Ste. Marie and a brother at Jackson. The body was taken to Jackson for burial Thursday.

Escanaba Legion Backing "War Against Depression"

A city-wide survey of odd jobs, potential jobs, and pledges for increases in permanent employment is to be sponsored at Escanaba by the local American Legion post in a campaign to connect up workers and jobs. Tentative details of the plan were announced Thursday, following the first meeting of a general Legion committee assigned to the task of putting the drive into action. Tom Beaton, Jr., heads the committee as general chairman, and the other members are A. V. Aronson, Emmett Meehan, Tom Dufour, Phil Bruce, commander of the local Legion post, and L. A. Danielson.

Tom Beaton

"The movement started by the Escanaba Legion is a part of the national 'war against depression' campaign inaugurated by the national Legion organization," said Mr. Beaton, "and the first objective is to put 1,000,000 wage earners, now unemployed, back to work.

"They call it the 'war against depression' because the entire population are called to defeat a national menace. Re-establishing public confidence and resumption of normal buying are two of the purposes. The entire country, and not any one class, will be benefited by the drive."

More Wage Earners

Commander Bruce announced that the national campaign is scheduled to start Feb. 15.

"All organizations and citizens in Escanaba will be urged to assist the American Legion in this campaign," he said. "Here at Escanaba we plan to work on an odd-job temporary employment project along with the national permanent employment program. The national organization is furnishing the necessary plans, news background, and assisting every community by direct contact, timing the national advertising to work in conjunction with every post.

Phil Bruce

"The national plan is to have each employer of labor put a minimum of one wage earner back to work. Here at Escanaba we propose to list in our survey every available job, large or small, whether it is available now, or next spring or next summer. It may be spading a garden, it may be painting a house, and then again it may be a permanent connection which will put some jobless man back on the lists as a wage earner. Normal buying will be encouraged, and it will be a step toward re-establishing normal conditions."

The project sponsored by the Escanaba Legion is an extensive one, and will require the covering of the entire city by personal interviews with employers and householders. The cooperation of city officials has been assured, and the complete unemployment data, with registration lists of jobless men, will be available in the drive. Various organizations, clubs and societies in the city will be asked to take an active part, with the intention of pushing the drive to successful completion as soon as possible.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co

EDITORIAL

RUSHTON ACTS.

SENATOR H. J. Rushton, of this city, laying aside every possible political consideration, as well as his personal desire to retire from the public picture and devote his time, exclusively, to the practice of his profession, stepped to the fore in behalf of harassed and perplexed municipalities and townships of the state, in demanding the calling of a special session of the legislature, for the enactment of legislation that will permit various governmental units to solve their own unemployment problems.

Recognizing the need for action, if thousands of idle workers of Michigan are to be saved from the ignominy of charity, Senator Rushton has requested the governor of the state to call the legislature into extraordinary session, in order that an emergency measure may be adopted, permitting cities and townships to enact such local legislation as may meet their individual unemployment problems.

Senator Rushton does not believe that the present is the proper time to consider a revision of the general tax laws of the state; he does not believe that the present is the time to consider legislative reapportionment or any of the various reasons that have been advanced for calling a special session of the legislature, but he does believe that the governor of Michigan and the legislature of this state, must heed the humanitarian cry for assistance from the state's unemployed thousands.

The action that will follow the formal placing of Senator Rushton's letter before Gov. Brucker, at Lansing, will be awaited with deep interest.

NEED INCREASES

During January, the Salvation Army was called upon to provide the greatest amount of unemployment relief since it has been established in Escanaba, the value of the welfare service being computed at $936.13.

A total of 3347 meals were served to the unemployed men at the Salvation Army's soup kitchen, and relief was given to 66 families within the city. Thirty-four pairs of shoes and 119 pieces of garments were issued during the month.

Captain Anderson, who is in charge of the Salvation Army welfare work here, reports that mid-winter finds many of Escanaba's unemployed in dire straits. For months they have gotten along on the few days a month the city has been able to provide with its public improvements program. Those who were able to save during the more prosperous times have been forced to exhaust their savings, and those who have been unable to save in the better days due to large families or low wages, now find it impossible to obtain credit at stores.

For those unfortunate people, the community must find means of providing some work, at which they may earn their livelihood and maintain their self-respect. Most of them dislike to accept charity, although they are obliged to. They would rather work however, so as to give the city various public improvements, from funds that must be provided either by the taxpayers, or the general public.

A proposal for the adoption by the city council of an electric and gas meter surcharge, to provide needed funds, is now being presented to various groups in Escanaba, before being formally presented to the city council.

WILL AID JOBLESS

UNEMPLOYED of Escanaba, whose lives have been clouded with worry and suffering in these troublous times, doubtless will see a ray of sunshine in the announcement that the Cloverland Post No. 82 of the American Legion will join in the national campaign to relieve unemployment.

The national campaign, sponsored by the Legion to get under way Feb. 15, will be conducted with the vigor that characterized America's successful efforts in bringing the World war to an early close. This time it is a "war against depression," a battle really more important than all the military engagements in history.

The fact that Cloverland Post will tackle the job is good assurance that some worth-while benefits will be derived from this campaign. The Escanaba veterans, whenever they adopt a project, see to it that it terminates successfully. The Memory Lane, the staging of the Passion Play, disabled veterans, relief and other achievements testify to the ability of Cloverland Post to do things right.

The objective of the Legion campaign is to have each employing agency of labor put a minimum of one wage earner back to work. An additional feature will be injected into the local drive in that the Legionnaires will obtain pledges from citizens to provide odd jobs from time to time to the unemployed. Wage earners will also be induced to help by normal buying and refusing to hoard their money.

Unemployment is the major problem before the American people today. The Legion could have adopted no better project for public service.

A STRENUOUS GAME.

IN introducing the old English game of ping pong in Escanaba, Harold Gessner became the target of some good-natured razzing from his friends, who voiced surprise that he, a man of such athletic proclivities, should pursue an apparently harmless pastime. However, Harold may now laugh last. An Associated Press dispatch from Annapolis states that ping pong has been barred for members of the St. John's college boxing team as being too strenuous.

It seems that one of the college's best pugilists was forced to forfeit his boxing match because of injuries received in a ping pong game. In going after a serve by his opponent, the boxer missed and struck the wall, injuring his head so badly he could not compete later in the ring.

A ping pong table has been set up in the recreation room of St. Stephen's church for the benefit of the devotees of the game. Ping pong was revived in America in 1927, and by 1928-29 it swept over the larger cities of the country. Ping pong, which is also known as table tennis, derives its name from the fact that when the bat hit the celluloid ball there was a sound like "ping" and when it landed on the table the result was "pong."

Anyhow, it's a dangerous, strenuous game.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Today, the birthday anniversary of Lincoln, orators, writers and individuals in all walks of life will exhaust the store of laudatory phrases that the vocabular, contains in an effort to pay tribute to this one of our national heroes.

No one would deny them this privilege nor take from Lincoln any of the many tributes that will be paid him. But, from among the many kind things that will be said, it might be possible, without detracting from the honor that is due to Lincoln, to reserve a few words of commendation for those who are now striving to save the nation from a crisis as serious, in many respects, as was the crisis which confronted Lincoln.

Lincoln, in his lifetime, was immune from the attacks of critics. Neither was he so free from imperfections as to be entirely undeserving of criticism.

History records that the administration of Lincoln was assailed and condemned as had been no previous administration, and the president was subjected to verbal and written criticisms in which both his character and his political position were scored.

There is no doubt that the attacks upon Lincoln were unjustified, but no more so than many of the attacks made upon the persons of present day leaders. The innate human failing which magnifies the faults of the living and exaggerates the virtues of the dead will some day be corrected. When that time comes the last vestige of ancestor worship which modern men inherited from his savage forefathers will have been destroyed.

About the only thing they haven't changed on the 1932 automobiles is the back seat driver.

THE DIME-A-DANCE GIRL

(By NEA Service) BY JOAN CLAYTON

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her extravagant mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE. The two girls support the family. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent. Ellen decides to work at night at Dreamland as a dance hall hostess until the sum is made up. The hostesses must wear evening dresses and Ellen owns none.

STEVEN BARCLAY, a man of 57 and Ellen's employer, sees the girl crying and discovers the situation. He offers to give Ellen a dress but she proudly refuses. He then loans her a dress from stock.

Ellen is half-pleased, half-frightened by her wealthy employer's obvious interest in her. But she forgets him entirely when at Dreamland she meets handsome LARRY HARROWGATE, an artist whose prospects, in his own phrase, are exactly nothing. She accepts Larry's invitation to tea the following day. Her mother is already planning that Ellen shall capture Barclay which exasperates the girl. She says nothing of the meeting with Larry.

In the morning flowers arrive from Barclay. Ellen is distressed because they are not Larry's gift, but her mother and sister are delighted.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

The initial excitement over Steven Barclay's flowers and Steven Barclay's intentions simmered down a little as breakfast progressed. For one thing, Mike with his clamorous demands for "More toast, Ellen" and "just a little teeny bit of your coffee, Mom," made any sustained discussion impossible. But after he had gulped his food and scampered away, Molly was at the fascinating topic again. She went straight to the main issue.

"Mr. Barclay is a bachelor, isn't he, Ellen?"

"I don't know and don't care," Ellen answered on a note of rising resentment. "Oh, dear! I'm sorry," she apologized, as tears welled up in Molly's eyes. "I didn't mean to be rude. I just hated being made a Roman holiday. I think he's a widower."

"Grass," supplied Myra. "He's been married twice. I don't know what happened to his first wife, got a Mexican divorce. The papers were full of it at the time."

Myra concluded self-consciously. "The second Mrs. Barclay was Leda Grayson—that notorious dancer. There was a terrific scandal."

"Oh," said Molly uncertainly. She was dashed. "Then that's different."

"It wasn't his fault," Ellen put in sullenly, reluctantly compelled to come to Steven Barclay's defense. "I remember the whole story now. It was all the woman's fault."

"I should say it was her fault," Myra commented warmly. She amplified her statement. "Leda Grayson cheated from the first but Mr. Barclay was chivalrous enough to get a divorce in Mexico —incompatibility or something. Everything was settled in secret but they say she got $1,000,000 for taking back her maiden name. Nobody criticized him at all."

"That's good. Then everything's all right," sighed Molly, relieved and not ashamed to show it. "I felt sure he wouldn't have shown Ellen attention if things hadn't been all right."

"What are you trying to do?" asked Ellen in a tone which she hoped hid her annoyance. "Make me Steven Barclay's third wife on the strength of a few flowers?"

"You can talk like that, young lady, but you can't fool your mother." Molly declared in her fairy assumption of sophisticated maturity. "Flowers might mean nothing from a young boy. But an older man doesn't do things like that and you know it. You're only trying to throw dust in our eyes."

Ellen was furious. She was conscious all the time that she was being ill-natured and ungracious, conscious that she was blaming Steven Barclay because his flowers were not from another man, blaming him, as well, for her mother's foolishness. But she could barely restrain herself from rushing from the table when Molly began to plan for future engagements with Barclay.

"You'll need two or three light little dresses for evening," she was saying. "Luckily it's summer and you can wear anything. I do wish your Aunt Myra would send another box. It's about time for one."

"What are you thinking of mother?" Ellen protested in a vain attempt to check the tide. "You're making tremendous plans on nothing at all. I won't have it!"

"Well," responded Molly, hurt, "if you don't want us to share your pleasures with you—why I guess—"

Ellen was suddenly remorseful. Mother was mother, delightful, feather-headed, irresponsible. There was no need to destroy her gayety. As she comforted her, Ellen's amused tolerant look went to meet Myra's self-conscious eyes. And she saw with an unpleasant shock that steady, sensible Myra, for once had sided against her. Myra believed she had been deliberately coquettish.

Molly readily forgave the grave injury that Ellen had done her. The easy tears dried and she was laughing, sparkling again.

"You'd better be good to me," she gayly rebuked Ellen. "I've a surprise I've been keeping for you. Yesterday after you telephoned about not having the right dress I went out and bought you a lovely printed chiffon with the cunningest little jacket that you take off when you dance."

There was an appalled silence. Molly added nervously, defensively. "It was a great bargain and since we didn't have enough money to pay the rent anyway, why, I thought—"

"Oh, mother," wailed Myra, "can't you see there's no point at all in Ellen's working herself to death at Dreamland if all the extra money is to go for clothes?"

"But now she can return the other dress to Mr. Barclay and start out right with him," argued Molly. It'll come in handy anyhow. You'll see. Things are starting to happen to Ellen. No one knows how long she'll have to work anyway."

"I love working at Dreamland," she said. "It's not work. It's fun there. I want to keep on. I met someone—well anyway I wouldn't give up going there for anything," she finished confusedly.

As Myra and Molly, their argument forgotten, turned their startled eyes on her she was conscious that she was blushing.

There was a long silence in the cluttered dining room where the sunshine, already growing hotter, trickled through curtains of cheap theatrical gauze and shone on the fine old mahogany table where two pretty girls sat with their pretty, dark mother.

Ellen, the soft flush receding from her cheeks, was thinking of Larry Harrowgate—his gray eyes and his quick, infectious laugh, the way he had said he was glad he had found her. She was thinking that she would see him soon, soon.

Scatter-brained Molly, rebellious and alarmed, was thinking too. Something had arisen to menace the bright fancies she had been weaving. What was there to say? What was there to do? A certain hardness in Ellen's square flushed jaw warned her that tears would be useless. So she held her silence.

Myra's thoughts were darting from Bert to Ellen. She was remembering the way she had loved Bert in the beginning, was remembering the way that love had faded with endless waiting. Surely Ellen could not in the brief space of one night have met another Bert. Surely life could not be so cruel just when it had seemed things were to be easier, just when, she admitted honestly, it had seemed that Ellen had at last met the man who was to rescue them all.

"Did you mean anything special, Ellen?" Myra spoke at last with effort and hoped that Ellen's jeering laugh would prove her wrong.

But Ellen did not laugh.

"No, I didn't mean anything special," she replied uncomfortably, after an appreciable pause.

"That's why you weren't pleased over the flowers, isn't it?" Myra persisted. "It was because you met someone you liked better last night at Dreamland? You spoke of meeting someone there. It was a man, wasn't it, a man that you liked?"

Her breath rose and fell on a long sigh.

"Yes, I did," Ellen replied defiantly, her bright, hostile eyes moving from her sister to her mother and back again. "Furthermore, I hope you and mother will be kind enough to let me handle my own affairs. I don't meddle in yours."

"I'm sorry, dear."

"Don't 'dear' me!" burst out Ellen furiously. "You and mother —both of you—make me sick. We're poor. All right, I can recoup the family fortunes by trying to trap a rich man into marriage. That's a fine and honorable solution. That's just great! It makes no difference what I—"

She burst unexpectedly into tears and rushing from the table ran into the bedroom and flung herself upon the bed. When Myra followed and sat down on the bed she refused to speak accept to insist hysterically that she be left alone.

"Listen to me," Myra pleaded tearfully, resisting Ellen's efforts to force her away. "Listen now. You'll cry yourself sick. I'll be crying if you don't stop. I—I'm crying now."

"You've spoiled everything," Ellen sobbed, her voice muffled by pillows.

"We couldn't. Not if you feel as I think you do. Mother and I were wrong and selfish. But we didn't understand, didn't know how it was. How could we? It's breaking by heart that you think I'm such a brute."

They had shared every emotion, every thought, almost every action from babyhood. Soon they were in each other's arms, crying together and then laughing. Ellen wiped her streaming eyes and swung her feet over to the floor.

"I must look a fright," she said shakily.

She went to the mirror to examine her reddened eyes. She began vigorously to dab on powder, conscious that Myra, cross-legged on the bed and still somewhat tearful, was watching.

"I'm sorry I said such things," Ellen began in a shamed voice.

"You were perfectly right. You should have been angry. I didn't realize, and I know mother didn't, how selfish we were being."

"No, it was my fault," insisted Ellen, eager now for her share of the blame. "I don't know what got into me. Thank goodness it's over now."

The ugliness of the scene in the dining room was forgotten. The sisters were friends again. Presently Myra spoke lightly of the young man Ellen had met at Dreamland. What was he like? What was his name?

Thus the first storm of a day that was to prove memorable for Ellen Rossiter faded away.

TROUBLE

I said to Trouble, "You go home,
And don't you follow me!"
For Trouble always likes to roam
Wherever I may be.
I saw the puzzled puppy pause,
And turned the path to find,
And then looked back, and there he was,
Still tagging on behind.

I said to Trouble, "You get out,
And leave a man alone!"
And even stopped and turned about
And threw a stick, a stone.
The Trouble disappeared, and I
Went onward free of care.
I turned a corner by-and-by,
And there was Trouble there!

I said to Trouble, "Come along,
If come along you will,"
And sang myself a little song,
In spite of Trouble still.
I found it was the better way,
Since Trouble there must be,
And not to let him spoil the day,
Let Trouble trouble me.

Church Services To Mark Opening Of Bicentennial

When America goes to church on the three days preceding George Washington's birthday this year, it will be to open "unofficially" a celebration never paralleled in all history—a celebration in which those who participate will honor themselves in doing honor to a nation's founder.

Officially scheduled to open February 22, the nation wide Bicentennial celebration of George Washington's birth will nevertheless be inaugurated unofficially in religious services throughout the entire country during the three days just preceding that date. On Friday, February 19, those whose Sabbath begins at sundown on the sixth day of the week will honor the memory of Washington in their regular devotional services. The following day, Saturday, others will observe the Sabbath in similar manner, and on Sunday all other religious groups will hold divine services paying tribute to the Father of his Country.

As is pointed out by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, which has been cooperating with and assisting the churches of the nation as well as all other groups in preparation for this great event, these religious services leading up to the official opening of the celebration are most appropriate. Given this devotional aspect to start with, it will more than ever impress the American people with the great principles and motives underlying this tribute to the great American.

With features provided especially for observance in the home, the school and the church, the celebration will unite America in a far more impressive and lasting tribute than ever could be accomplished by the most spectacular display of national wealth, power and achievement. Every person living in the United States must be impressed at this time, if never before, with his debt of gratitude to George Washington. The opportunity is now being given him to express that gratitude in a national demonstration designed for the participation of every individual in the country.

The United States Bicentennial Commission has been in communication with all of the 232,000 church groups in the United States, and the enthusiasm expressed by church leaders indicates that all are desirous of taking an active part in the celebration.

FANCY OIL PAPER

For the children's lunches you can get fancy colored and figured oil paper for sandwiches. You don't need to use it every day but along about the time the Sunday roast gives out and you have something they don't like so well, using a bit of colored paper may pick up their interest in the sandwiches.

Heart Interest In Evidence In 1932 Valentine

New York (AP)—Judging from the 1932 valentines, young America is growing more sentimental.

The "heart stuff" isn't the sugar-coated kind suggested by the old jingle, "Roses are red, violets are blue," but it's sentiment, just the same.

The louder and funnier valentines with their barbed wisecracks have declined in popularity and verses on even the humorous cards that will go out a few days ahead of February 14 reflect a real depth of feeling.

New simplicity characterizes both verses and designs. Black silhouettes framed in heart-shaped gold tracery or against a gold-heart background, with a floral design in pastels are a popular new version of the elaborate old-fashioned "flower-garden" valentines.

Timely line-drawings are numerous.

If size is a gauge of sentiment, some of the 1931 missives win the prize. A mere nine by twelve, unfolded, is nothing to these "illustrated story" valentines.

Sailors are especially popular—in all sorts of nautical settings, with appropriate verses.

Cats, after a tentative appearance last year, have definitely established themselves as Dan Cupid's allies. From pedigreed Persians to fence-stalking alley-cats they purr or mi-a-ow a message.

Yellow, apricot and warm ivory tones are newly popular valentine hues, usually with matching envelopes.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Three Buildings In Garden Padlocked

Garden, Mich., Feb. 11 (Special)—Three buildings have been padlocked in Garden by order of the United States district court as a result of liquor law violations.

Those padlocked were the old "Garden House," well known hotel property owned by R. A. McDonald, aged pioneer business man; the store building operated as a soft drink parlor by Thomas Truckey, and the Asa Tatrow building here where Dighton Tatrow operated a soft drink parlor and pool room.

The "Garden House" was closed following the conviction of Joseph Gardner who operated a soft drink parlor in the south end of the building.

Thomas Truckey and Dighton Tatrow were also convicted following raids made simultaneously on the three places by federal prohibition officers assisted by state police.

INFECTED EYE

James Tatrow has returned from Escanaba where he had been for several days taking treatment for an infected eye. His physician found three grains of gunpowder which had been lodged in the eye since the patient was six years of age. At that time young Tatrow was playing with a toy cap gun when in some manner the powder go in his eye. He had a little trouble at that time but the wound healed over and has not given any trouble until several weeks ago when it was feared that an ulcer was forming. It was noted, however, that there was a small spot indicating the place where the powder penetrated. The accident happened 29 years ago.

The doctor was successful in removing the grains and it is believed that the eye will, in a short time, become entirely normal.

PERSONAL NEWS

Out of ten students attending the Garden grade schools from the McNally road east of town, only one was able to attend Wednesday and this was Molly McNally. All of the others were sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Johnston of Thompson called on Mrs. Emma Johnston at her home here Tuesday night. They took back with them the former's brother, Hugh, who went on to Manistique where he will be the guest of his sister, Mrs. Joseph Turpin, for a few days. While there he will have some dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Abel of Escanaba spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Mary Hennessey. They had intended to stay longer but for the heavy snowstorm at that time.

More soft weather is causing concern to commercial fishermen who had just got nicely started with their annual under-ice winter fishing. A few moderate sized lifts have already been taken out but a break-up at this time would mean a considerable loss of income to many who annually depend upon their winter fishing to furnish a fair share of their total income.

Very little ice has been harvested at this time. It is impossible to successfully carry on the activities of a commercial fisherman without liberal quantities of ice at all times. No one seems to know exactly what will be done in case of a total disappointment in the natural supply.

U. P. Briefs

Marquette—The Marquette Airport association, organized here last fall for development of the airfield on the Green Garden road, anticipates a rapid increase in aviation activities in Marquette, beginning with the opening of the flying season in the spring.

The association, composed of Sig Wilson, Carl Tauch, Dick Plow, E. C. Watson, Jr., Peter Wydra and Kenny Richardson, has invested a considerable amount of money in the 40-acre airfield, located eight miles south of Marquette on U. S. 41, near the Mangum road intersection, and the field has been licensed by the state board of aeronautics.

May Quit Fair.

Ironwood—The action of the county board at Bessemer yesterday in approving the request of the Gogebic County Fair association for the balance of $7,934.55 from the annual appropriation virtually means Gogebic county will not have a fair this year.

While officers of the fair association have made no statement to that effect, it is borne out by the fact yesterday's action of the county board will deplete the association's funds. Approximately $6,000 of the $7,934 balance will be applied on loans at banks in the county and the remainder will be used to meet current bills.

Hotel Sold.

St. Ignace—Announcement of the sale of the Northern Hotel to O. P. Welch was made today as the receivership action of Welch, McIntyre and Welch, former owners, was settled in Judge Victor D. Sprague's special term of circuit court here. All the accounts presented by H. P. Hossack, receiver, of Cedarville, were allowed and closed.

The sale price of the hotel was not made public. Similar action was taken in the case of the New Ste. Marie Hotel at Sault Ste. Marie. Kaizor Maze is the propietor of the New Ste. Marie Hotel. It was formerly owned by Welch, McIntyre and Welch.

Judge Stiles Better.

Menominee—Probate Judge John W. Stiles, stricken Sunday by a bladder ailment, was improved and able to sit up in bed in his home, 219 Ogden avenue, today. His improved condition is expected to permit him to return to his office in a few days.

INDIAN RELICS ARE PRESERVED

Burying Grounds and Trails Discovered in Upper Peninsula

"Great care is exercised by foresters to prevent the removal or destruction of any historic or prehistoric ruins or relics existing on national forest land, including formations of scientific interest, according to H. P. McConnell, draftsman and surveyor for the U. S. Forest Service, with headquarters at Milwaukee. We are always on the lookout for Indian graves, mounds, and missions as we work within our national forests on roads and other improvements. These remnants of an earlier civilization are generally found on ridges running across the country, but are rapidly disappearing, Mr. McConnell said, hence the need for their protection.

New discoveries of relics or ancient landmarks within the forest boundaries, not hitherto known, are reported at once for information of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington.

Old Trading Posts.

On the Marquette National Forest, in the eastern part of northern Michigan, there is an interesting Indian burial ground on the banks of Spectacler Lake overlooking Lake Superior and the wooded shores of Canada at the head of the St. Mary's River, near the Point Iroquois Lighthouse. Nearby is the Indian Mission, composed entirely of Indians whose forefathers were pioneers in the early settlement of the upper peninsula.

On the Chippewa National Forest the Hudson Bay company left a historic trail, and the rotted foundations of dilapidated cabins are being preserved by local people as memorials of the pioneer trading posts. Indian graves on the Chippewa are fenced off and boxed up so they will not be molested, for they are of tremendous interest, not only to the historian, but to the increasing hordes of vacation explorers choosing the forests for their annual relaxation. The Chippewa has spent some time in cataloging the graves of Indian chiefs, and a conscious effort is being made to preserve what remains of historic background.

The North American aborigines built extensive burial and fortification mounds, especially in the valley of the Mississippi, which has its beginning in the lakes of the Chippewa Forest. Formerly they were supposed to have preceded the Indians, but later investigations go to show that they were, in general, identical with the tribes that occupied the country when discovered by Europeans.

The United States is now connected by telephone with 40 foreign nations. In this gigantic hookup the American telephone used is in contact with 32,750,000 telephones, or 92 per cent of the world's total.

Banks to Observe Lincoln's Birthday

The anniversary of Lincoln's birth will be unobserved in Gladstone except that the Gladstone State Savings Bank and the First National Bank will adhere to the annual practice of not being open for business on that day.

The birthday anniversary of but two of the presidents, Washington and Lincoln, are legal bank holidays and both of these occur in February.

Brucker Opposes Diversion Of Funds

Detroit, Feb. 10 (AP)—Governor Wilber M. Brucker said today he would oppose any diversion of state highway funds to relieve city and county financial emergencies. The funds are no more than sufficient to finance needed road construction, he said.

TWO CITY FUNDS ARE INADEQUATE

All But Street and Sewer and Welfare Funds Will Meet Needs

Balances in the budget funds of the City of Gladstone at the beginning of February are sufficient to meet the requirements for the remaining two months of the current year, with the exception of two funds, records at the city offices reveal. The Welfare fund, which has a balance of $184.81 remaining from an appropriation of $2,500.00 will be inadequate and the street and sewer fund is now overdrawn to the extent of $3378.01. The appropriation for street and sewer purposes at the beginning of the year was set at $16,029.00.

The excess in expenditure over the appropriation in the street and sewer department is due entirely to improvements undertaken during the year to avoid a heavy overdraft in the welfare fund. The City Commission, at the recommendation of the City Manager, inaugurated street work during the year, far in excess of the program anticipated by the budget, when it became apparent that relief through employment would be the only means of relieving a burden upon the welfare fund through direct relief.

In addition to the heavy expenditures in the street department, a review of the records of utilities of the city shows that more than $9,000.00 has been expended for improvements in the water and electric light service. A total of $5,000 has been expended so far this year for water mains and an additional $1,214.54 was spent for new service connections and minor improvements.

In the electric utility department of the city the sum expended for improvements totals $3,955.48 for the ten months of the current year. This expenditure is represented by new power lines and new service lines and connections throughout the city.

The total expenditure by the city, outside of the special assessments for sewer and pavement construction, during the year has amounted to more than $20,000.00. Including the special assessments and the present sewer construction, which is being financed by a general bond issue, the improvement program of the 1931-32 fiscal year will reach $40,000.

The condition of the funds of the city as at Feb. 1, in comparison with the budget provisions are revealed by the following table compiled from the records of the city:

Fund	Budget	Bal.
Contingent	$ 7,022.50	$1,872.75
Street and Sewer	16,029.00	x3,378.01
Band	2,204.60	626.83
Cemetery	2,300.00	328.70
Park	4,050.00	125.94
Fire	8,190.00	1,732.33
General	5,235.00	502.99
Health	250.00	93.40
Interest	3,852.00	594.17
Police	6,245.00	873.14
Welfare	2,500.00	184.81

x Indicates overdraft.

Tax Collections

Taxes unpaid, at the beginning of February, including county, state, school, city and special assessments total $62,984.18. Of this sum only $2,951.74 are delinquent city taxes and $2,143.11 includes all of the special assessments due and unpaid on Feb. 1.

School taxes still to be collected amount to $34,439.54 and delinquent state and county taxes total $22,949.79.

The greater portion of the delinquent taxes will be paid this month in order to present them being returned delinquent to the county treasurer.

The condition in relation to the collection of taxes is not much different from previous years.

Salvation Army Captain Leaves

Capt. K. Olson, for the past six months in charge of the Salvation Army headquarters here, will leave today for Chicago to await an assignment to a new location. Capt. Olson will be succeeded at the local post by Capt. Einar Holbourn, who comes here from Marinette.

The transfer of Capt. Olson is in accordance with the Salvation Army regulations which provide that assignments to posts, such as Gladstone, shall be for a period of six months, except in the case of married men who will be permitted to remain for longer periods.

During his stay here Captain Olson was responsible for the establishment of an Army kitchen to feed the transient laborer. Through cooperation between a group of citizens and the Army a fund was raised to finance the kitchen and the captain and his assistants cooked and served the meals.

Up to the time of his departure Captain Olson had supplied more than 500 meals to transients and had also gathered clothing and food for distribution among the poor.

In Gladstone, the Army kitchen has had the effect of relieving the housewife of the annoyance of back-door solicitors for food.

Rifle Club Adopts By-Laws, Range Rules

The Gladstone Rifle and Pistol club met at the city hall to adopt by-laws and rules and regulations to govern the organization Wednesday night. By-laws recommended by the National Rifle association were approved and range regulations outlined by President H. W. Willis, of the club, were adopted.

The members of the club were advised that up to the present time an out-door range had not been secured. Owners of land upon which it had been hoped to build the range, objected to a lease to the club. It was learned and further investigation had not yet revealed a site entirely suitable.

An indoor range, however, has been secured, President Willis announced, through the courtesy of Lieds, who have granted permission to the club to use a basement under their dairy plant. This range is to be made available at an early date by a committee comprising Carl Hillman, Carl W. Johnson and Lowell Slade, who were appointed by the president and instructed to proceed with equipping and rearranging the room for the accomodation of the riflemen.

A report of the Red and Gun club banquet at Negaunee was presented by H. W. Willis, George Beaudry and Charles Riley, who represented the club there on Monday night.

Mrs. Matt Miller, who has been suffering from an attack of bronchitis for the past three weeks, is improving steadily and expects to be up and around soon.

Kefgren Will Be Guest of Newberry Legion Men Friday

Leslie P. Kefgen, state commander of the American Legion and former Newberry school superintendent, will be the guest of the Hugh Allan McInnis Post at a banquet here on Friday night. Although the dinner is being given by the Legion and Auxiliary all friends of Commander Kefgen are invited, tickets being on sale by the Auxiliary members who will also serve the meal.

The committee in charge of the event are George Williams, chairman; C. L. Bystrom, Dr. M. B. Purdy, Sergt. Fred Keune and G. K. Fisher. A speaking program will follow the banquet after which the visitors and all who wish to will attend the Ishpeming-Newberry basketball game which has been postponed until nine o'clock. Following the game two hours of dancing in the school gym will complete the evening and allow a large number of Newberry people to meet Mr. Kefgen.

The guest of the evening first came to Newberry in 1910 serving first as high school principal and later as superintendent, until in 1917 he inlisted in the Air Corps of the American Army, doing his studies in Aeronautics at Selfridge Field for his flight training. He earned his wings at Gernsted Field in Louisiana.

Crossing the sea he served first with the French air forces and later was sent back into American service where he was given command of the 20th Aero Squadron and went into action at the front in August, 1918, serving until the end of the war. He won many honors and took part in many exciting air scraps of which he seldom can be made to talk.

Coming back to Newberry following the war he served another year in the schools and then left that profession to enter business in partnership with a former friend in Bay City and Saginaw, establishing a successful establishment selling automobile parts and accessories.

Commander Kefgen and his party of other Legion officials are expected here during the afternoon of Friday and will go on to Sault Ste. Marie for the 13th and 14th to attend the mid-winter conference of the U. P. Legion Posts.

The party had at first planned to hold a Friday meeting in Munising but gave over this plan to allow the commander to have an evening in his former home. Members of the Munising Post will also be the guests of the local post for the event.

Marie by Warden Thorson and Edward Bilitzke attorney general's assistant, who is conducting the probe, and it is reported that he said he would turn over the keys to his place of business to allow the officials to go through his records. "This is the week when all Christian women of the world are giving one day of thought and prayer for missionaries.

"At this time it is well to recall two former Manistique girls who are now living in East Africa. They are the daughters of Dr. Augustus Nelson who was pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church in Manistique for many years. (Rev. Nelson was also pastor in Escanaba at one time and the girls may have been born in that city.)

"Many Manistique people have delightful memories of these most talented girls, Anna and Ruth Nelson, and will follow with interest their work in Africa. They were graduated from the Manistique high school in 1917 and took their college degrees from Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter, Minn. Miss Ruth taking a special course in piano at the same time.

"Ruth was married to Dr. Hobart Johnson, who after taking a special course of study in London for tropical medical work, was stationed as a medical missionary in Tanganyika territory where they have resided during the past four years.

"Anna is the wife of Elmer Quist, formerly a school superintendent, but who has since become a missionary and will have charge of educational work in the same district of Tanganyika. Thus the sisters have been close neighbors for nearly two years. Anna is the mother of two boys and Ruth the mother of two girls and a boy. 'The missionary family is a wonderful object lesson to all of us.'"

THEATRES

"Matrimony under the microscope" might be the title of "Good Sport," the Fox Films offering today at the Gero Theatre. With a brilliant cast headed by Linda Watkins, John Boles, Greta Nissen, Hedda Hopper, Minna Gombell and Allan Dinehart, the picture deals with a wife's adventures in finding out why her husband left her, and is one of the most talked-about films of the year.

Mrs. Walter Scott of Blaney arrived in the city Wednesday and will spend the week-end here visiting with Mrs. Gladys Hubbard, 531 Manistique avenue.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Financial and commodity markets showed today that they approved of the militant move being launched at Washington against deflation.

Prices of securities and basic staples joined in a bullish demonstration which, so far as stocks were concerned, was the most vigorous since mid-December.

Although the rise seemed to be largely at the expense of shorts, there was no mistaking the share market's enthusiasm for the proposed banking measure and quotations climbed, with the usual interruptions for profit-taking, from the opening gong, closing at the top. The average net gain was just 5 points.

Material assistance was provided by declaration of a regular quarterly dividend by Union Pacific railroad and by disclosure of Ford's new model program. The motor and steel trades had been anxiously awaiting word from Ford, and it was immediately felt that both industries would now be able to shape their plans more clearly.

Wall Street reacted promptly to the overnight news from the national capital. Stocks were taken in large volume at the opening which was a point or two higher for many leaders, and gained courage as the session moved along. U. S. Steel, American Can, Allied Chemical, Case, Santa Fe, Du Pont, American Telephone and Union Pacific gave strong leadership, advancing 5 to 7 points. The last named issue made a top of 77 but reduced its maximum advance og 7 5-8 by a point. Volume of 2,559,931 shares was somewhat under the largest turnover made on the January rally, although the average gain surpassed last month's best performance.

Weekly mercantile reviews reported little change in business conditions since the last reports. Forecasts of a revival, said Dun's, have not been substantiated to a noticeable degree, "but in some directions the trend of business is rising gradually but irregularly." uncertainty as to political and economic developments, it added, was undoubtedly causing some hesitation.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Feb. 11—Stirred by credit expansion moves at Washington and by a Canadian cold wave suggesting damage to domestic winter wheat, all grains soared today.

Despite profit taking on price bulges, reactions from advances were brief and the entire list of cereals ended at almost the day's top level. A big outburst of buying took place at the opening and bullish sentiment continued to dominate, notwithstanding doubts in some quarters as to ultimate results in view of premiums already existing in this country's wheat prices compared with Liverpool and Winnipeg.

Wheat closed firm, 1 1-8 to 1 4-8 above yesterday's finish, corn 1 1-8 to 1½ up, oats 7-8 to 1 advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 20 cents.

Corn and oats responded to the same factors that inspired buoyancy of wheat. Despite upturns of prices rural offerings of corn to arrive were not materially augmented.

Provisions advanced sharply with hog values and with grain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 58¾, 60 3-4 to 7-8; July, 59 to 59 1-8, 61 3-4 to 7-8; September, 60 5-8, 63 1-8. Corn—May, 39 1-8, 40 5-8 to 3-4; July, 41¾, 42 7-8; September, 43 3-4, offers.

Low 1931	62.3	62.3	80.2	68.5

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Secondary railroad bonds staged a sizeable recovery today and practically all classes of loans advanced their prices from frctions to several points.

Although sales totalled but $9,346,000, dealers were considerably encouraged at the firm undertone which prevailed throughout the session.

Announcement from Washington of plans to ease the credit situation was viewed in some quarters as highly constructive for the general mortgage list. The cheaper bonds of the carriers were in the greatest demand although the high-grade legal liens were well supported.

The United States government section was steady and price changes narrow. Traders were somewhat uncertain just how the Liberties and Treasury issues would be affected by any revision of federal reserve practices.

Curb Enjoys Rise in Quoted Values

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Curb market made its contribution to the advance in security and commodity markets today, embarking of a rally which lifted prices in all groups and closing at virtually the best quotations of the day.

Short covering in some stocks, prompted by the new measures to free credit, proceeded actively and the turnover increased to approximately 250,000 shares, or nearly twice Wednesday's volume.

Industrials and specialties generally returned the best gains, but utilities also showed broad improvement. Several oils made liberal advances. Insull stocks were strong. In the specialties, Newmont Mining, Bunker Hill, the Swift issues, Parker Rust, Deere and New York Steam were up 1 to 3 points, while Great Atlantic & Pacific, reporting a January sales decrease both in tonnage and dollars, gained nearly 8.

Cities Service was well supported, closing half a point higher at 6. Electric Bond and Share pushed across 11 in an active market. It was 1 3-8 net higher.

U. S. "Hot Spots" Fit Hooker For Shanghai "Beat"

Washington, (AP) — A big, square-jawed "leatherneck" — hailed by his fellow officers as one of the best policemen in the marine corps—stands guard with his "devil dog" regiment in troubled Shanghai.

Col. Richard Hooker, who, with the fourth regiment of marines, is charged with the safety of the entire western section of the international settlement in Shanghai, has a reputation built almost solely around the sort of work he now finds at hand.

One Serious Clash

In the Philippines, Panama, Porto Rico, Mexico, Haiti and the Virgin islands he has patrolled "beats" over a period of some 30 years.

Only one serious clash has occurred during all this time. In 1915, while on duty in Haiti as a major, he participated in an engagement with Cacos near Cape Haitien and two of his company were wounded.

Slightly over six feet and weighing some 210 pounds, Colonel Hooker is known to his brother officers and men as a man varying in temperament from the quiet, gentle type to one of the most capable "hell raisers" in the marine corps.

'Tea Or Fight'—Same.

"Dick Hooker," says one of his cronies, "is always ready for anything—be it a cup of tea or a fight. It all depends on which is nearest at hand."

Although he is just a few days from his fifty-fifth birthday, he has the carriage and demeanor of a man of 35. He has a splendid physique, the result of participation in strenuous athletics in his earlier days and systematic exercise now.

Hai'i, perhaps, has been his outstanding field. He was there during the world war on duty with the first provisional brigade as district commander of the northern area.

He was ordered to Shanghai as commanding officer of the fourth regiment of marines in September, 1930.

Butler's Old Job

With the Japanese invasion of that city, Colonel Hooker and his marines have been made responsible for that section which includes the chief foreign residential area.

It is the same assignment given the marines under Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler in 1927, when the devil dogs went into the trenches shoulder to shoulder with the crack Coldstream guards of Great Britain.

Colonel Hooker is married and the father of six children.

ST. JOE HOPES TO GET GOING

Purgolds Lost to Escanaba Boys Earlier in Season

Hoping to shake themselves out of the rut in which they fell when they played the Lady of Lourdes at Marinette earlier this week, the St. Joseph basketball team will play Vulcan at the Coliseum gym tonight. The Parochials hold one victory over the Purgolds.

Coach Brunelle has scheduled a light workout for Thursday night but he was far from satisfied with his team's showing at Marinette so last night's workout extended until well past six o'clock. The Parochial coach ordered the lengthly drill in order to prime his squad for the battle tonight.

The Vulcan team is one of the teams that the Parochials will have to contend with in the Class C tournament at Gladstone this year, so tonight's battle will give fans an idea of what can be expected if the teams are drawn together at the tourney.

The Parochials defeated the Purgolds by a scant margin in the first game played between the outfits this year but the Vulcan quintet expects to even the score today.

A preliminary game will be played by the reserve teams of the two schools.

Although Brunelle indicated he will start his regular outfit with Clements at center, McGovern and Harvey, forwards, and Sharkey and Brazeau, guards, into the fray, he will be ready to shift in any reinforcements that seem necessary if the first string men fail to show up better than they did earlier this week.

A. Johnson will handle the whistle.

As Lincoln understood liberty, the Pennsylvania executive said, "this nation is not a free nation today."

How can the nation be free when the policies of government are dictated by a handful of the over-rich? Lincoln knew well that the principles of the declaration of independence would be threatened in times to come."

Charge Professors Teaching Atheism

Lubbock, Tex., Feb. 10 (AP)—Four members of the faculty of Texas Technological college, a state institution, were designated today by the Rev. R. C. Campbell, Baptist pastor, as being "guilty of teaching atheism and infidelity to students."

At a conference with President Paul W. Horn, the minister reiterated accusations he had made from his pulpit. Names of the professors were withheld pending an investigation by President Horn.

The university head said students and the accused professors would be given a hearing.

FAST THINKER

Los Angeles—Quick thinking on the part of W. C. Wuest saved his eyesight, physicians say. While working recently a lot of steel shavings were hurled into his eyes by tools he was using. The shavings were drawn from his eyeball's, causing him extreme pain, but saving his sight.

Spartans to Play DeMolays Saturday

Rock, Mich., Feb. 11 (Special)—Local basketball fans will be treated to a double bill this week, when the Spartans meet the Escanaba DeMolays and the high school Reserves meet Harris high school at the local gym Saturday evening.

The Little Giants will be idle this week so Coach Weingartner carded Harris in an effort to get a line on his next year's prospects. The reserves played one game already this season, defeating Stephenson seconds handily. They are expected to be a good match for the Menominee county lads.

The Spartans, with but one defeat against them, will be after their tenth victory of the season. The DeMolays have one of the strongest amateur outfits in Escanaba and are in a position to set back the Spartans a notch. The Spartans haven't been clicking so well lately, having barely won their last two games. However, they expect to come out of their slump Saturday night.

The first game of the evening will begin at 7:30 and the feature at 8:30 o'clock.

Gopher Pucksters Beaten At Hancock

Hancock, Mich., Feb. 11. (AP)—University of Minnesota's touring hockey sextet met its match here tonight and went down to a 2 to 1 defeat at the hands of the Hancock Eagles, state amateur champions and leaders in the American amateur hockey association.

The Eagles' first goal, early in the second period, was an outright gift from the Gophers, Halste, Hancock defense man, soloed into Minnesota territory, but the Gopher goalie stopped his shot. In helping Claussen clear the puck, Suomi, Minnesota defense man, struck the rubber with the wrong side of his stick and drove it into the net.

Ten minutes later, A. Riutta, Hancock spare, scored unassisted. Minnesota's lone score came late in the second period, when Gibbs took a pass from Schaeffer and bulged the twine with a hard shot.

Tomorrow night, Minnesota plays the Calumet Intermediate All-Stars, another amateur aggregation, at Calumet.

Brownsville, Texas, high school will have a golf team in 1932 for the first time in the school's history.

IOWA, MICHIGAN REACH FINALS

Home Room Cage Tourney Will Be Ended At Junior High

The semi-finals of the Senior high home room basketball tournament were completed last night at the Senior high with Miss Bang's home room, Michigan, and Lyle Shaw's room, Iowa, emerging as victors. In the first game Michigan won out over Chicago 15-12 in a hectic contest that was only decided in the last minute of play. With the score tied at 12-all in the last quarter, Captain Engstrom of Michigan sank a free shot that proved the margin of victory for his team. Just before the final whistle Valentine cinched the game for Michigan with a field goal from the half-way mark.

In the second contest, Wisconsin, the favorite, was nearly routed by the Iowans who piled up 28 points to the Badgers' 21. At the end of the third quarter the score stood 24-11 in favor of Iowa but a barrage of baskets by Don Olson of Wisconsin put his team into the running with 19 points while Iowa was increasing its total to 23. Two field goals and a free shot put the game on ice for Iowa in the final minutes. Don Olson was the high point man of the game with 15 to his credit. Karl Erickson, the reformed football star, was the outstanding player for Iowa.

Tonight at 8:15 in the Junior high gym Michigan will meet Iowa in the finals of the tournament and at 7:15 Chicago will meet Wisconsin in a preliminary to the main contest. A small admission price will be charged to see the games, the proceeds to help pay for the new electric score boards recently installed in the gym. Stanley St. Louis will referee both contests.

DEMPSEY LICKS K. O. CHRISTENER

Manassa Mauler Knocks Out Akron Fighter in Third Round

Cleveland, Feb. 11.—Jack Dempsey added another knockout to his barnstorming string here tonight in his bout with Meyer (K. O.) Christner, who took the count in the closing minutes of the third round of a scheduled four round bout.

A pair of left hooks to the chin tumbled Christner to the canvas for the fourth time, and he was attempting to get his wabbling legs under him again when the count cut him down for good.

There was a hearty sprinkling of "boo's" from the crowd of nearly 10,000 persons during the first round, when the warriors resorted to clinching. At the end, however, the Manassa Mauler was given a great ovation.

A left to the chin knocked Christner down for nine in the first, and a pair of right crosses to the jaw sent him to the canvas for two more nine counts early in the third. But the Akron fighter won the second, shaking Dempsey twice with hefty rights.

Dempsey looked tired and old at the end of the second, but he was back with plenty of life in the third to wind up the bout with old time eclat.

Jack's bad left eye, cut in a fight at Milwaukee Monday night, gave him considerable trouble as Christner worked on it. Blood trickled from the wound shortly after the action started, but apparently did not greatly hamper Dempsey.

In the ten round semi-final, Adolf Henser, the German light heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over George Manley of Denver, in the fifth round.

CLEAN SWEEP FOR U. S. SKATERS

Irving Jaffee, winner of the 10,000 meters Olympic speed skating championship, fell exhausted at the finish line. Here he is receiving assistance from officials. The New York broker's clerk, who previously had won the 5,000 meters final, gave the United States a clean sweep in all four Olympic speed skating championships, the first time in history that this nation, or any other nation, has ever won them all.

Bob Sled Heats Held Over Until Today Due to Treacherous Slide

Lake Placid, N. Y., (AP)—Continued warm weather and rain tonight brought about postponement of the bobsled races scheduled for tomorrow as part of the third winter Olympics program.

Olympic officials, in announcing the postponement, said that the first and second heats of the four-man bob sled competition, originally scheduled for today, will be run Saturday or Sunday.

If there is no decided change in the weather by tomorrow, all four heats will be run on Sunday.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—Just when things were running smoothly, controversies and arguments forgotten, and bobs were staying on the back-breaking curves of the Mt. Van Hoevenberg slide, along came rain to disrupt the 1932 winter Olympics today as the games were in sight of the finish line.

The sudden softening of the atmosphere, a steady fall of rain that slowed at times to a drizzle, started early this morning and within a few hours had washed so much snow from the rockety bob sled run that the first two of the four heats for the four-man championship were postponed until tomorrow.

The slide, slick and slippery, and sheer ice, was nothing more today than an invitation to commit suicide.

Two Heats Today

Wisely Erwin Hachman, of Germany, and Albert Meyer, of Belgium, who took over the slide in the name of the international bob sleigh committee when argument and bitter feeling broke out between foreign and American drivers almost two weeks ago over practice arrangements, decided that there was no need to tempt fate. Now the first two heats are scheduled for tomorrow with the final two heats Saturday morning, closing day of the games.

Unless the weather stiffens suddenly, however, the 1932 games may wind up in a jam of final events and a wild scramble to reach decisions on the five finals that must be cleaned up in the last two days. Olympic rules allow only 24 hours of postponement for any event, automatically ending the games by rote and rule.

Already, in eight days of competition, eight finals have been decided, four of them speed skating championships all of which the United States won, and another two-man bob sled title which Hubert Stevens snatched yesterday with the two final breath-taking bursts down the mountain side to set records never before thought possible for that event.

Karl Schaefer, of Austria, won the men's figure skating championship; Sonja Henie, of Norway, outclassed the field in the women's event, and the Swedes, Norwegians and Finns dominated the 18 kilometers ski race, with Sven Utterstrom, of Sweden, deposing Johann Grottumsbraaten, of Norway, as champion yesterday.

U. S. Team First

As a result, the United States, making the greatest showing of any nation in the history of the games, leads the field with five individual championships and 76 points in the unofficial score going into the closing championship events, the ski jump, pair figure skating tomorrow, and the finals of the four-man bobs, 50 kilometers cross country ski race, and Olympic hockey competition Saturday.

Canada has made the second best showing, with 36 points, and Norway follows with 27; Sweden, 22; Austria, 15; Finland, 10; Switzerland, 5; Germany, 4; Rumania, 3; Italy, 1, and Belgium, 1. There seems little probability that any of these nations can overcome the American advantage, with the United States all but conceded victory in at least one more event, the four-man bob championships.

The field in the bob sled climax was reduced to eight teams of five nations today with the withdrawal of Max Houbens of Belgium, from the race because of an injury to his brakeman, Louis Van Hegge, who turned over on the slide with Houbens in a practice run last week.

Houbens and Van Hegge drove in the two man races yesterday, but his brakeman's shoulder, injured in the earlier crash, was so swollen and sore today that he had to withdraw. Since the Belgians have no other experienced brakeman, and the fellow who applies the steel jaws to the track, when danger looms, is next to the driver in importance to the team, Houbens was obliged to withdraw his sled.

Spartans Have Three Big Events This Week

East Lansing, Feb. 11 (AP)—Preparations drew to a close today for Michigan State's competition along a three-fold sport frontier this week-end.

Ralph H. Young, director of athletics, announced the selection of twelve men who will comprise the Spartan delegation leaving here tomorrow for Morgantown, W. Va., to compete in the West Virginia relay carnival. Coach F. A. Collins completed the workouts for his wrestling squad which will meet Syracuse here tomorrow night. The final of a two-game basketball series will be played here Saturday night with Michigan.

Liberty in Hurdles

Clark S. Chamberlain, national cross-country champion, will head the Michigan State track stars competing at Morgantown in their first test of the indoor season. He will enter the one-mile race.

Kenneth LaFayette, of Detroit, and Robert Kibby, of Kenwood, N. Y., will run the 70-yard dash. Clifford Liberty, of Gladstone, and Ted Bath, of Niles, are the 70-yard low and high hurdle candidates. Montie Holcomb, of Cassopolis, will represent State in the pole vault.

State will enter two relay teams—the two-mile team comprised of Otto Pongrace, Guy Warren, Clifton Cobb, and Walter Wissner, and the sprint team of Kirby, LaFayette, Andrew Cobb, and Hovey. The two-mile team will run against Michigan and Princeton in a special match event.

Coach Collins regards Syracuse with the same respect as the Michigan wrestling team which State barely defeated earlier in the season. The Spartans have won three meets without a setback. The team will be comprised of Austin, 118 pounds; Ball, 126 pounds; Bvam, 135 pounds; Stoner, 145 pounds; Marsa, 155 pounds; Jensen or Rajkovich, 165 pounds; Lepard, 175 pounds, and Reavely, heavyweight.

KEILMEN OFF IN PRACTICE

Poor Play in Workout May Bring Shift in Line-up Friday

Gladstone, Feb. 11—Coach Eldon Keil, of the Gladstone high school, expressed dissatisfaction today with the showing made by the basketball team in a work out last night and indicated that a last minute shift might be made in the line-up Friday night. The passing was ragged, he said, and the boys were way off color in basket shooting. Some of the trouble he attributed to hard practice Monday and Tuesday night and stated that the team would be given a rest tonight in preparation for the Manistique game.

Earlier in the week the coach had declared his intention of starting Froberg and Damitz in the forward positions but today he stated that he would not be certain until just before the game just what two of his four forwards would be used. The starters will be selected from Damitz, Kircher, Froberg and Jahnke.

During the greater part of the season, Damitz and Kircher have been the regular starters in the forward positions, but against St. Joseph last week Froberg and Kircher started. Kircher was replaced early in the game by Jahnke who had recently been switched from guard to forward.

Outside of the question of who will fill the forward berths, the lineup will be unchanged. Carter will start at center and Murphy and Potvin will be at the guard positions.

Manistique is not looked upon as a serious threat if the Gladstone team is up to form, but neither is the game to be a set-up. During the season Manistique has lost a majority of the games, but only by a narrow margin.

Gladstone has not defeated a Class "B" team this year.

Norton Specials Win From Cooks

The Norton Specials, amateur basketball five from Manistique, eked out a close win over Cooks Tuesday night by a score of 24-22. Although completely outscored from the field, the Specials managed to win the game on free throws, sinking every one of tehir ten chances.

Aldon Norton was high point man for the Specials, counting 12 points with three field goals and six free throws. LaKosky, Robare and Deparo were the main point getters for Cooks, each gleaning six points.

The score:

VIKINGS BOAST STRONG QUINT

Interest Runs High in Dickinson County For Battle

The Eskymos hope to resume their winning ways at Norway tonight when they meet one of the strongest of the peninsula's Class C teams. The Vikings have appeared impressive against strong competition this year and would like nothing better than to spike the Nordberg athletes.

Coach Nordberg planned earlier in the week to employ a zone defense against the Vikings but after a night's test he decided to revert back to the five-man defense that his squad has used effectively through most of the season.

The Norway game is expected to definitely tell the Escanaba coach what he can expect when the Eskymos play Iron Mountain in what is likely to be a championship game at Escanaba on Feb. 23. Iron Mountain defeated the Vikings this year.

The Escanaba starting lineup will be the same as usual with Anderson, center; Johnson and Labre, forwards; Baillargeon and Monson, guards.

A number of Escanaba fans are expected to make the trip to Norway for the battle.

VIKINGS STRONG

Iron Mountain, Feb. 11 (Special)—Iron Mountain high school cagers got back into the harness yesterday after a three-day rest with a defensive scrimmage against Norway in preparation for their game Saturday against Menominee, at the same time furnishing Norway with the opportunity of polishing up for their all-important clash Friday evening with the crack Escanaba quint.

The teams did not attempt a regular scrimmage, both coaches being on the floor and halting play whenever things were not to their liking.

Norway showed a particularly snappy passing game and should give Escanaba plenty of opposition when they clash before what is expected to be one of the largest crowds to pack the Vike court in recent years.

Plenty of Interest

There is a great deal of interest in Iron Mountain over the Norway-Escanaba affair and it is likely that a good sized delegation from this city will be on the sidelines when the Vikes get their crack at the Eskymos. The Norway cagers look like one of the best in the peninsula's Class C ranks and are odds-on favorites to come through with the U. P. title. They have played seven games in Class B this year, winning four and dropping three, these being the only blemishes on their record. Even in defeat against Escanaba they would be able to show a .500 rating, while victory would give them a great winning percentage.

Huey Long Steals Spotlight In Golf Show, New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 11 (AP)—Playing a dub's game in the very best tradition, Senator Huey P. Long stole the spotlight from a score of the nation's golf stars today in a pro-amateur event at the Metairie Golf Club that was played as a preliminary to the $5,000 open tournament starting here tomorrow.

The stars went almost unnoticed as the gallery of cash customers, newspaper reporters and photographers trailed behind the big boss of Louisiana politics to see him shoot a neat brace of 64's for an 18-hole total of 128 which qualified him for the booby prize, had there been one.

Kirkwood had an off day with a card of 81. Weiss shot a 98.

Rainfall Greases Ice on Highways

Rain Thursday added to the hazards of motoring on streets and highways. Sand was applied by city and county crews at curves and intersections as a safety measure for automobiles.

Out on the bay, water covered the ice, and fishermen had slushy going around their shanties. Ditching through ice was found necessary on a number of city streets to carry surface water from pavements and walks.

A newly dug grave at Lakeview cemetery was filled with water, forcing a postponement of a burial, and a number of householders found their premises flooded.

The bridge crew working on the new span over the Ford river on M-35 had rising water to contend with yetserday.

Tacoma, Wash.—It wouldn't have been so bad if the thief had taken B. J. Potocki's $30 and escaped. But the night was cold, it was raining, and the streets were full of water and mud. The uncompromising thief took Potocki's $30 and then demanded his shoes. The victim tramped through the rain and mud in his bare feet to notify police.

ESCANABA MAN LABOR OFFICER

Other officers elected are: William P. Frost, Detroit, first vice president; D. F. Erskine, Detroit, second vice president; E. J. Halloran, Flint, third vice president; C. M. Beaudin, Escanaba, fourth vice president; H. E. Chamberlain, Lansing, fifth vice president; Loren Green, Detroit, sixth vice president; E. M. Curry, Kalamazoo, seventh vice president; and John J. CLIFFORD BEAUDIN

Support of federal unemployment relief was expressed in a series of resolutions adopted today.

Support by Senators Couzens and Vandenberg of the Costigan-LaFollette bill, providing for an appropriation of $375,000,000 for immediate relief of the unemployed, was asked in one resolution.

Urge Building Program

Immediate payment of veterans' bonus in full was indorsed in another, and indorsement was given to a five billion dollar federal bond issue for immediate unemployment relief.

Governor Brucker will be requested, as the result of convention action, to call a special session of the state legislation to float a $15,000,000 bond issue to resume the authorized building program approved by Governor Fred W. Green and the 1927 legislature.

Protest was made against further cuts in the appropriations of the Michigan state department of labor and industry and in wages of inspectors.

Declaring that labor is being "mercilessly victimized" by small loan companies, allowed to charge three and one-half percent a month interest, the convention authorized its executive board to procure the introduction of state legislation "that will drastically reduce the legal rate of interest on small loans."

The convention went on record in support of the bill introduced in congress by Representative David Lewis to provide life disability insurance for employes, workmen's compensation, workmen's old age pension, workmen's unemployment insurance, stabilization of production, and equal partition of work among workers entitled.

Abraham Lincoln

Born February 12, 1809

The advancement of Lincoln from obscurity to world wide fame was neither sudden, accidental nor easy.

From the day when he left the paternal home and launched his canoe in the waters of the Sangamon River to begin life on his own account, to the day of his first inauguration, there were fully thirty years of self denial, patience, study, deferred hope, hardships and bitter disappointment.

Today in reverence to the memory of a noble character, splendid leader and great American, this institution will not be open.

Tomorrow we shall be here with renewed energy and a greater inspiration for constructive service.
